

BELL NUNNALLY'S BRENT TURMAN FEATURED IN "LAWYERS WHO LEARN" PODCAST

March 03, 2025

Bell Nunnally Partner Brent A. Turman was a featured guest on the Lawline, Inc. podcast "Lawyers Who Learn." In the episode, Turman discussed his fascinating journey from ESPN production to law, highlighting how his media background has shaped his approach to legal storytelling.

The conversation explores Turman's innovative approach to continuing legal education, including his popular courses. He also shares insights from his experience working on the high-profile Fifty Shades of Grey litigation, where he learned valuable lessons about legal storytelling from his mentor, Mike Farris, who emphasized the importance of clear, straightforward legal arguments.

The discussion provides valuable insights into the power of creative presentation in legal work, the importance of developing an authentic courtroom style, and how lessons from entertainment and media can enhance legal practice. Turman's energy and positive attitude shine through as he shares practical advice for lawyers looking to break free from traditional approaches to legal practice and presentation.

To listen to the podcast, please click here.

Related Practices

Litigation

Entertainment, Advertising and Media

Practice Area Contact

Brent A. Turman